ABOUT THE SHOW

Hosted by performer David Bramwell and singer Eliza Skelton, Singalong-a-Wickerman! is a camp Rocky Horror-style cabaret and film night; combining live music, audience participation, sing-a-longs, bottom-slapping and other Wickerman-themed silliness. And even the occasional appearance and talk from director, Robin Hardy!

Audiences are encouraged to attend dressed as their favourite character from the film (or, if they prefer, in their birthday suits) and are provided with a "Pagan Hymn Book", featuring the words to all the songs in the film and a "goody bag" full of mystery items to be used during the film, including edible foreskins, umbilical cords and DIY crosses.

At the start of the show David and Eliza roll their own short homemade super8 Wickerman spoof, warm up the crowds' vocal chords with 'Gently Johnny' and teach the actions to the Maypole Song. Then the film is rolled in all its dark, pagan glory with David and Eliza leading the singing and dialogue with full lyric sheets and silly props...

REVIEWS

Camp, cheeky and hugely entertaining! Time Out

Franky genius! The Guardian

Singalongawickerman did phenomenally well here – it's such a great show!

Porl Cooper, programmer for the Lowry Theatre, Salford, Manchester

Love the bizarre handouts, the singing and kitsch surprises. This is kooky British silliness at its best. Big Issue

A fantastic night - we sold out on Halloween and are planning more. It's entertaining, hilarious and unique.

Jon B, Manager Duke of York's Brighton
